

Positively Autism

Making Learning Fun and Meaningful for Children with Autism

Visit PositivelyAutism.com for autism teaching materials and training. Most things are free!

- Free Newsletter
- Online Autism Training Guides for Parents and Teachers
- Social Skill Activities
- Academic Learning Activities

What to Expect on Valentine's Day

This story begins on the following page.

Visit www.PositivelyAutism.com for more autism teaching resources.

What to Expect on Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is a holiday in February.

On Valentine's Day people often celebrate with their friends, families, and other people they love.

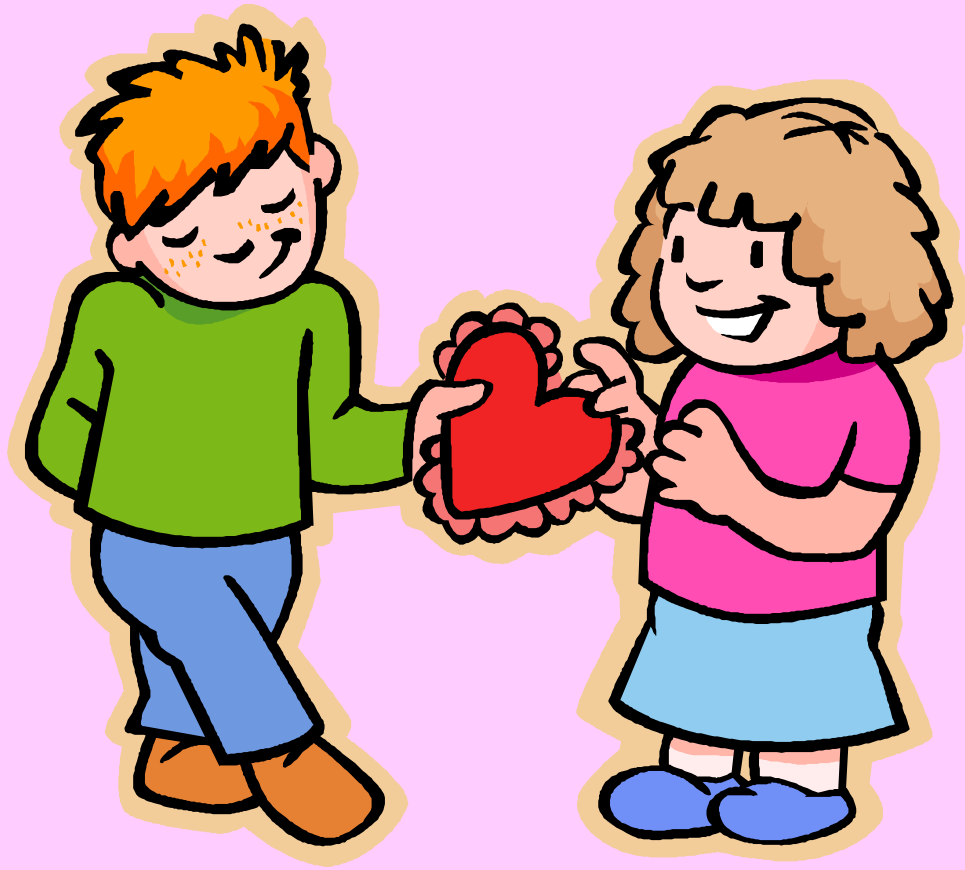

On Valentine's Day, my class might have a Valentine party. At the party, there might be games or crafts, snacks, and valentine cards.

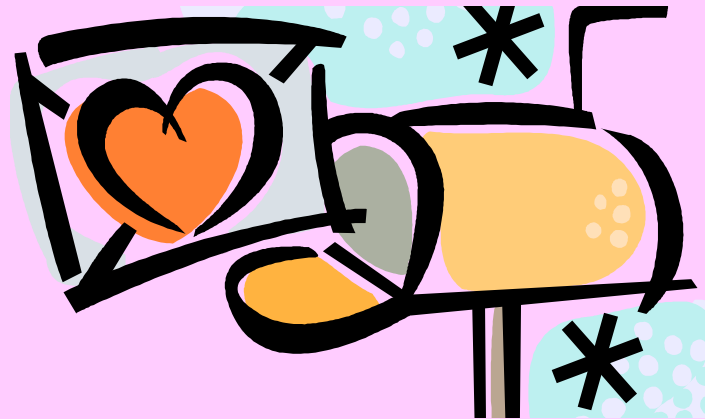

My teacher can tell me how to play the games or make the craft. I will try to listen and participate in the game or craft.

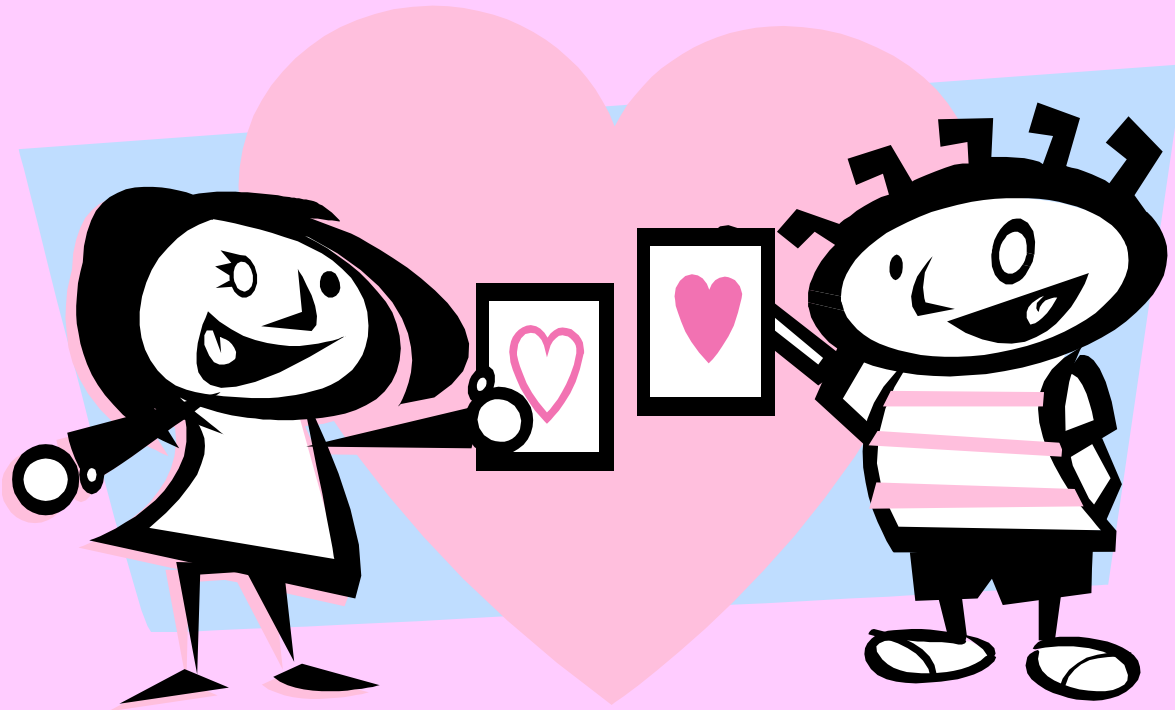

If we have snacks, I will try to sit at the table or desk with the other kids. I can try the snack, and it is okay if I don't want it. I can say, "No, thank you" if I don't want it.

At a Valentine party, kids also give each other Valentine cards.

My teacher might have each kid make a mailbox or card box to put the Valentine cards in. I can bring a Valentine card for each kid in my class.

It makes kids feel happy to get Valentine cards from their friends.

If a friend gives me a Valentine card, I can say, “Thank you!”

I am learning about Valentine's Day.